

FIAM ITALIA'S 'HASAMI' MIRROR

With a working title of Origami at the Mirror, glass specialist Fiam Italia asked architects Paolo Rizzato and Laudani & Romanelli Studio to design its new mirror collection. Rizzato's 'Hasami', our favourite, has a joint at the back, making it possible to turn the reflecting surfaces in different directions. An intimate inspection of our ears is at last a reality.

'Hasami' mirror, by Paolo Rizzato, for Fiam Italia, €880, tel: 39.07 2120 051 (Italy), www.fiamitalia.it

RITMONIO'S TAP

The challenge to reinvent the tap continues. At this year's Salone, efforts included one that emerged from the ceiling and featured joints allowing it to swing between the basin and the bath. Among the more traditional fittings, however, we fell for the cool simplicity of Peter Jamieson's new Waterblade-J collection for Ritmonio. It features a rectangular section mixer spout with a clean, right-angle bend and a joystick lever. There are versions to suit baths, basins and bidets, in a chrome or brushed nickel finish. 'Waterblade-J' tap, €300, by Ritmonio, tel: 39.01 6356 0000 (Italy), www.ritmonio.it

TRANSPARENT BASIN FOR CISAL

With a transparent base, this basin by Milan's Giampiero Peia makes washing a novel experience. The basin itself, in smooth matt Corian, is kept masterfully minimal. 'GA0029' basin, €3,900, by Giampiero Peia, for Cisa, tel: 39.03 2291 8111 (Italy), www.cisal.it

'SQUARE' RADIATOR

Radiators have come a long way since they were considered a necessary eyesore, but the search for a balance between function and aesthetics is still testing some of the world's finest designers. This radiator is the work of design duo Roberto Palomba and Ludovica Serafini. Exceptionally flat, it is intended to be as non-invasive as possible and function as a piece of art or sculpture. It demands a wall all of its own and in return will look beautiful as well as warm your towels. 'Square' radiator, price to be confirmed, by Roberto Palomba and Ludovica Serafini, tel: 44.20 7351 1988 (UK)

REISSUED ROYAL MOSA TILES

First created in white by late Dutch industrial designer Kho Liang Le for Royal Mosa, and used to clad the interior of Schiphol airport, this range of tiles has been reissued in black. Patterns include circles and triangles and there are plain tiles to fit between them. Get grouting. Tiles, from £22 per sq m, by Royal Mosa, tel: 31.43 368 94 44 (Netherlands), www.royalmosa.com
